Dear Chairman Martin,

This letter is in support of WRVW-FM and their commitment to serving teens and young adults throughout Nashville and the surrounding area.

For two years, WRVW-FM has partnered with Dawson McAllister Live to bring quality programming to their young listeners. Dawson McAllister Live is a call-in talk show for teens and young adults, those 25 and younger can call and talk about their lives deepest needs and issues, such as broken families, abuse, depression, addictions etc. Dawson McAllister Live fills 100% of WRVW-FM's FCC requirements for their station. On March 31, 2008 WRVW-FM added Dawson McAllister Late Nights to their line-up, offering an additional 25 hours of community service programming.

WRVW-FM is actively involved in the lives of their listeners via the HopeLine, which provides help in a one-on-one setting.

WRVW-FM is unparalleled in their dedication to serving the Nashville community. I urge you not to impose any rules that will hinder WRVW-FM's valuable service to their community.

Sincerely,

June Colbert,
Director of Syndication and Sales
Dawson McAllister Association

FCC COMPLIANCE

Hello,

This is to confirm that the Dawson McAllister Live program series qualifies as a public affairs program in that it addresses the problems, needs, and interests of a significant portion of the audience.

It has been especially significant in that there is not a lot of public interest programming for teenagers and young adults as targeted by the series.

You have been responsive to our input regarding the documentation for the FCC required Quarterly Issues Programs Lists, and that is an additional benefit for affiliates.

Regards,

Peter Fulton
